'MORE REVENUE AS THE TRAFFIC MOUNTS'

Message rate will cost $10m

Conversion to a message rate system in two to three years would cost about $10m and should be adopted by the Hongkong Telephone Company as an "equitable way of paying for service rendered", Mr T. J. Morgan, leader of the British Post Office consultants team said at a Press conference yesterday.

In recommending the message rate for the Hongkong telephone system, Mr Morgan mentioned three methods of charges:

- Flat rate—when a subscriber is required to pay a rental charge per telephone irrespective of the number of calls made;

- Full message rate—when a charge is made for all calls but no rental is charged; or

- Modified message rate—This is a combination of the previous two methods. A rental charge (lower than in the first method) is made per telephone and a call charge (lower than in the second method) is also required.

From the subscriber's point of view, the message rate would be an "equitable way of paying for service rendered," Mr Morgan said.

10 YEARS

"On the other hand, from the viewpoint of the Telephone Company, the message charge would be able to accrue more revenue as the traffic mounts."

Mr Morgan who favoured a step-by-step exchange system such as in use at present "as being the most economical and practical system," said the company would be able to meet the demand of the Colony in 10 years time.

"There would be no difficulty in doing that so long as sufficient funds are available."

Mr Morgan said it had been difficult for the Telephone Company to have forecast years back the demand as it is mushrooming today.

"Hongkong's telephone growth has been twice as much as in any other country in the world," he said.

"Statistics showed that over each year recently Hongkong has an average growth of 22 per cent in telephone service. And since 1955, the growth has been 344 per cent."

Mr Morgan, who was engaged in investigating the technical side of the company's business, said the company has been run just as efficiently as the British Post Office in the UK.

What faults the Hongkong system has had also cropped up in Britain, he said.

OBJECTED

He has recommended a number of staff changes including stepped-up training which the Hongkong company has not had the time to deal with sufficiently.

He objected to building exchanges on top of car parks. "The service to the outlying islands and the New Territories needs improvement," he stressed.

It would take the Hongkong company two to three years to convert to the message rate system at a cost of $10m.

In 1980, the company would be able to cater for 1,100,000 subscribers if it follows the recommendations in his report, he said.

Although as a public franchised company, the telephone service could make do with public subsidy in its expansion, personally, Mr Morgan believed that other ways of increasing capital such as utilising the company's surplus funds and raising funds through issuing more shares are "only fair."

SOYA MILK CAUSED MINOR SENSATION AT FOOD SYMPOSIUM

Hongkong's phenomenal production of low-cost soya milk in the form of "Vitasoy" caused a minor international sensation at an international food symposium in Japan last month. Mr K. S. Lo, Managing Director of the Hongkong Soya Bean Products Company, Ltd, said today.

Doctor wins award

Dr Anthony Paul Chan, of Hongkong, who is spending two years in Britain furthering his surgical studies under a British Council scholarship, has already obtained a Fellowship of the Royal College of Surgeons and its coveted Hallett Prize.

This award is given to students of outstanding merit who gain the highest marks in anatomy, applied physiology and pathology and bears the name of Sir Frederick Hallett, a former director of examinations at the Royal College.

Mr Lo told an audience at the luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club of Hongkong Island West at the Hongkong Hilton that the food experts, attending the International Symposium on Oil-seed Protein Foods in Tokyo on May 11-15, were surprised that a commercial organisation existed selling the soya milk at 20 cents a bottle, since United Nations subsidiary organisations had "poured millions of dollars into many developing countries trying to get them to produce soy bean milk or powder by subsidy, and yet were unable to produce one self-supporting unit to this day."

NEGLECTED

Countries like the United States and Japan had made "tremendous advancement" in many respects in the use of the soy bean Mr Lo said, but had somehow neglected the field of "soybean milk."

They were surprised to hear of the tremendous popularity of the drink in Hongkong.

The delegates were also impressed with slides showing the modern equipment and

Big fine for making imitation watches

A watch manufacturer who was caught turning out imitations of $500 Omega wrist watches to sell for $85 was fined $6,000 by Mr E. S. Haydon at Central Court today, and he did not pay, a magistrate would not hesitate to jail him for nine months.

Ying-shum, 49, of 41 Ghimman's Bazaar, second floor, Hongkong, pleaded guilty to possessing at that address on May 29 for sale or manufacture 100 wrist watches purporting to be Omega watches; 96 impressions of the Omega trade mark; 15 wrist watches, 29 winders and 48 dials bearing forged Enicar trade marks; 22 wrist watches, eight winders and 18 dials bearing forged Rolex trade marks; 44 winders bearing the Omega trade mark. He also admitted that he had applied the false Omega trade description to the 100 wrist watches first mentioned above.

FORGED

Detective-Inspector Roy Sturgeon of the Commercial Crimes Office told Mr Haydon that all the items were found when Yu's factory, the "Loyal Watch Company," was raided under search warrant.

Yu admitted to police he had bought 100 Swiss watch movements, not Omega movements, and other watch parts bearing forged trade marks and assembled them on the premises. The watches would sell for $85, whereas the genuine Omega watch cost around $500.

The cost of the genuine Rolex watch for which Yu possessed imitations was also about $500. The genuine Enicar watch would cost about $80.

Ping Chau to have treated water supply

Ping Chau, a small island with a population of nearly 4,000 and situated off the east coast of Lantau island, will have a treated water supply some time next year.

The island which has its own well-established industries, including match manufacturing, tanning and lime burning. The island also serves as a base for numerous fishing boats.

Work on the first phase of the scheme to provide the island with a fresh water supply from the Shek Pik Reservoir on Lantau island will begin some time next month.

The work includes the construction of a fresh water service reservoir and the laying of over one mile of pipelines on the island.

ON HILL

The service reservoir will be constructed on a hill on the northeastern side of Ping Chau and will be provided with the necessary inlet and outlet mains at the same time.

A submarine pipeline connecting the island with the existing twin 30-inch diameter submarine mains between Shek Pik and Hongkong island will be laid at a later stage.

The construction of the service reservoir and the laying of the inlet and outlet mains will take about nine months to complete.

Mr Raden Rikusworo has been recognised as Consul for the Republic of Indonesia in Hongkong.

Mr E. Amin Ibrahim has been recognised as Consul-General for the United Arab Republic in Hongkong.

Boy tells how elder brother chopped him

A 13-year-old boy told a Judge at Kowloon District Court this morning that his elder brother chopped him for no apparent reason.

The boy, Wong Yuen-kai was testifying before Judge E. G. Baber against his brother Wong Siu-hung, 21, unemployed, of 590 "R" Block, Li Cheng Uk Resettlement Estate, 6th floor.

Wong denied the wounding charge.

"A man fetched some towels and bandaged my head, while Tang went downstairs to call my parents.

"I seemed to see my father hitting my brother with an iron bar.

"Then my father wrapped me up in some clothing and blankets and took me to the hospital," the boy said.

FROM THE FILES

25 YEARS AGO

June 1939

AN example of "superiorive salesmanship" is given by the Manchester Guardian correspondent.

In November, 1936, a Polish priest was arrested in Bessarabia for selling seats in Heaven. He had a map of Heaven on his desk with the allotments portioned out, all neatly numbered; and his clients were mostly simple-minded peasants—women generally—who came to his house and trustingly selected and paid for favourable plots on the map.

For there were plots and plots. The places which were "near God" cost double the price of the average situation, those near the Archangel Gabriel were also very expensive, and the ordinary places were sold for a sum equal to a couple of English pounds.

Before the fraud was discovered and stopped the priest had disposed of some 200 places, many of the peasant customers having sold their last cow to secure a place.

Wedding Of Two Teachers

Miss Elisa Chan & Mr Brian Heaton

Miss Elisa Chan, Assistant Education Officer of the Education Department, was married to Mr J. Brian Heaton, Education Officer, Queen's College, at a pretty wedding at the Roman Catholic Cathedral yesterday.

The Rev. Fr. Dominic Bazzo officiated. Mr Donald Fraser, Organiser of Music, was at the organ. Soloist was Miss Vera Auyeung, accompanied by the Cathedral choir.

The bride, who is also an organist at the Cathedral, is the daughter of the late Mr S. K. Chan, well-known sculptor and painter, and Mrs Chan, of 26 Caine Road. The groom is the son of Mr N. Heaton, wool adviser to the London Export Co., of 280 Oakworth Road, Keighley, Yorkshire, and the late Mrs E. Heaton.

The bride was given away by her brother Mr Anthony Chan. She was dressed in a white full-length chantilly lace gown, with a coronet head-dress of Italian orange blossoms, which were sent from Italy by the bride's grandmother. She carried a bouquet of tuber roses.

Matron of honour was the bride's mother, who wore a slate-blue guipure lace gown and picture hat of net and ostrich feathers, with matching accessories.

Miss Vera Auyeung and Dr Lily Yen were the bridesmaids, dressed in full-length pink net over taffeta and carrying pink bouquets of roses. Similarly dressed were the Misses Shane Alwright, Katie Yue, Helen Chan and Camelia Kao, flower girls.

Page boys were Masters Richard Cheung and Drew Findlay, Mr P. A. Cross was best man.

A wedding reception followed at the Wing On Mess Hall, at which Mr C. J. G. Lowe, Principal of King George V School, proposed the toast.

For her going-away dress, the bride chose turquoise chiffon with gold accessories.

STANLEY BARBECUE

The Ladies' Section of the Stanley Club will hold a beach barbecue for children at Tweed Bay at 6 p.m. on Saturday. A bar and fires will be available.

Carpenter Guilty Of Murder But Insane
A carpenter, Lam Shui-leung 30, was found guilty of murder but insane by an all men jury in Supreme Court yesterday. Lam murdered his colleague Leung Wai-pui on May 23 in a carpenter's shop at 62 Catchick Street. He struck Leung with an axe, inflicting eight wounds on Leung's head and body. Lam later notified the police by telephone. The defence pleaded insanity. Dr. P. M. Yapp was of the opinion that Lam was suffering from a paranoid state, and had delusions that others were out to harm him. Dr. R. D. Scriven, was of the opinion that Lam knew what he was doing at the time but felt that he was not doing wrong as he was suffering from delusions that he was in immediate danger of his life.

Man Accused On Robbery, Arms Counts
Chan Wo, 37, unemployed, was charged before Mr. T. L. Yang at Kowloon yesterday on one count of possession of arms and two counts of robbery with aggravation. No plea was taken. The accused was remanded three days in police custody for further enquiries. It was alleged that on Aug. 30, at Cheung Chau, New Territories, Chan possessed two revolvers and 30 rounds of ammunition without a licence. It was further stated that on March 24, at the Tai Ming Goldsmith Shop, Kowloon, Chan, with others not in custody, robbed Law Ho of 37 gold necklaces, nine gold bracelets and 11 gold finger rings, valued of about $7,500. Chan was also alleged with others not in custody, to have robbed the same man in the same shop on July 9, of 49 gold necklaces to the value of $6,799.

Man Accused On Robbery, Arms Counts
Milland, finding out about his wife and Cummings, hides his knowledge completely under a pretence of friendliness, and meanwhile plans in coldblooded fashion her efficient removal. As his instrument he chooses a vicious, nasty little ex-officer whom he blackmails into committing the murder, the perfect opportunity being laid on at a distance by Milland himself. The plan misfires and the wife, panic crazed, kills the would-be murderer, but even this is turned by Milland to his own advantage so that she stands in danger of the gallows. There is no mystery, in so far as the audience knows of the entire plot, but the agony of suspense as you wait to see if Milland will betray himself by turning back for the murderer's door key is tremendous. If you enjoy thrillers, you will like this.

"World Citizen" Back In U.S.

Sit-down Strike In Airliner

New York, Jan. 10. Garry Davis, self-styled "world citizen" and son of the society band-leader, Meyer Davis, entered the United States without a regulation passport to-day after staging a sit-down strike aboard a Dutch airliner.

Davis 32, a proponent of world government, said he won his point by gaining entry with no strings attached. The U.S. Immigration Service had offered to permit his entry as a "parolee."

"This parole would indicate that I am a prisoner," said Davis, who renounced his U.S. citizenship in 1948 to become a "world citizen." He has since applied twice for reinstatement, without success, although the Government has granted him an immigration visa.

He was arrested in the Netherlands on December 31 when he arrived from Pakistan. Dutch Immigration officials put him aboard the New York-bound plane yesterday. Davis, sandy-haired World War II airman, said he signed nothing in winning his sit-down strike victory.

He said: "I am in this country unconditionally, and they have allowed me to represent myself as a world citizen." — United Press.

Believed Oldest Man on Active Duty in US Army

Hot Springs, Ark., Jan. 10. Sgt. Willoughby B. Blankenship, 71, believed to be the oldest man on active duty in the U.S. Army, died at the Army-Navy hospital to-day. He had been a heart patient for several months.

Sgt. Blankenship's wife and nine children were reunited last Christmas for the first time since 1945. Sgt. Blankenship enlisted 50 years ago but his service was not continuous and he served one year in active duty. Sgt. Blankenship would have been 72 in two weeks. — Associated Press.

LEGAL PROFESSION

Lawyers Motion Defeated In Ricci Hall Debate

YOUTHS SUPPORT VOCATION

Amidst roars of laughter, three lawyers were defeated by a majority vote in a motion which they had proposed at a debate at the Ricci Hall Hostel's Dining Room last night.

Their three opponents were undergraduates.

The defeated motion was: "Of all the professions, the legal is the least recommended for youth."

Proposing the motion were Mr Y. H. Chan, solicitor, and Mr O. V. Cheung and Patrick Yu, barristers. Opposing the motion were Mr Terence Tai, Mr Anthony Chan and Mr Chan Ping-cheung. Mr Tai is an art student and the other two are studying medicine.

In the chair was His Honour Judge James Wicks who summed up following the debate, during which many members of the audience contributed to the "pros" and "cons" of the motion.

The debate was introduced by the Rev. Fr Herbert Dargan, SJ, Warden of Ricci Hall.

Speaking for the motion, the three lawyers noted the disadvantages and hardships of the legal profession. They maintained that the profession was not creative and spoke of the many precedents which the profession had to follow.

Mr Chan spoke of the "overcrowdedness" of lawyers in the Colony and Mr Cheung suggested that the lawyers had very little chance to see everything from one end of the world to the other, to see all manner of nations or even to see the sunrise. Mr Yu spoke of the "ticklishness of the wig and the gown."

Speaking against the motion, the undergraduates suggested there should be "more new blood" in the legal profession "rather than keeping the old there." The legal profession was one which was interesting and powerful. The study of law would develop a logical mind, a critical attitude and the use of a reasoning power towards everything that came into daily life. It would be the training of a sound mind in a sound body, they argued.

Another undergraduate, speaking from the floor of the hall, said that only a few days ago, at the opening of the Assizes, the Hon. the Chief Justice, Mr Justice Ma. Hogan, had emphasised that within the Hongkong University there would be a law department.

The attending surgeon said American and British medical literature made no reference to any previous major surgery done exclusively by post-hypnotic suggestion.

He said Caeserean sections had been performed before while patients were under hypnosis but he believed this to be the first case where the patient had been awakened after a hypnotic spell during which it was "suggested" she

CULTURE OF IRAN

Exhibition To Be Held At Cathedral Hall

TWO TRAVELLING BROTHERS

Hongkong will, for the first time have the chance to see an exhibition of Iranian culture and history when it opens on Monday, November 14, at St John's Cathedral Hall. There will be no admission fee.

The exhibition is being held by two Iranian brothers who arrived in Hongkong on January 2 in the course of a 10-year world tour on motorcycles. They are Mr Issa Ommidvar, 27, were travelling round the world on a purely "cultural and goodwill mission."

They said that their mission was entirely independent and that they were undertaking it for the people of Iran.

It was their view, said Mr Ommidvar that an exchange of knowledge and culture was the best way of fostering friendship and understanding between nations.

The brothers have taken pictures of tribal dances and native customs and have also collected works of art. These they will exhibit to the people of Iran on their return home.

The Exhibits Mr Ommidvar recalled that the exhibition they held in Bangkok and other places drew a large number of interested people.

The exhibition here will be a pictorial display and works of art showing a 6,000-year-old civilisation in Persia. There will be photographs of historical architecture in Iran, national sports and games not found in any other country, paintings and miniatures giving an insight into the philosophy and poetry of the country and samples of arts such as Persian carpets, ivory engravings, mosaic and enamel works, light embroideries, silver and filigree works.

The student traveller said he and his elder brother had been honoured by an interview they had with His Excellency the Governor Sir Alexander Grantham.

Mr Ommidvar said the idea of holding the exhibition in Hongkong came when they realised that the people of Hongkong are "most cultural and artistic."

The brothers are scheduled to go to Japan from Hongkong on the next leg of their world tour. The Cathedral Hall exhibition will be held on November 14 and 15 from 9 a.m. to 6.30 p.m. each day. The brothers will be present to explain to visitors various aspects of the exhibits.

FUNERAL

Well-known Resident Of Edmonton

MR WONG GET-SUE

Edmonton, Canada, Jan. 10. One of the biggest Chinese funerals ever seen here will be held on Saturday for Wong Get-sue, 56, one of the best-known members of the Chinese community of Edmonton.

Get-sue, who was born in Canton, travelled alone to Victoria, British Columbia, at the age of 12.

He was immediate past President of Chinese Nationalist League and was a member of the organisation for 35 years. He also served as an Executive Officer of the Chinese Benevolent Society in the city.

In 1936 Wong, an ardent curler, led the first All-Chinese rink in Canada to compete in a major bonspiel.

He is survived by his widow, who came from China four years ago, a son in Edmonton and a daughter in China.—United Press.

Death Certificate As A Souvenir

Lynneham, Jan. 10.

A 19-year-old British soldier, who was given up for dead after a plane crash in the Malayan jungle, landed at the Royal Air Force station here to-day with his death certificate in his pocket.

"It was given to me as a souvenir by my commanding officer and I am going to frame it," said Driver Thomas Lee of Atherton, Lancashire, who trekked through the jungle for 12 days with a broken ankle before he was found.

Driver Lee, with the 55th Company of the Royal Armoured Corps in Malaya, was one of nine men in a Royal New Zealand Air Force freighter when it crashed.—S.C.M. Post Special.
